

ENVIRONMENTAL TOXICOLOGY

AT THE UNIVERSITY OF
CALIFORNIA, RIVERSIDE

ETOX.UCR.EDU

EXPLORE ANALYZE EXCEL

- Excellent research facilities and internationally renowned faculty
- Cutting-edge research addressing important environmental and health-related issues
- A prestigious National Institutes of Health training grant, providing support for several Ph.D. students each year
- Preparation for successful careers in government, academia and in the biotech, pharmaceutical, and chemical industries

DEGREES

The Environmental Toxicology Graduate Program awards M.S. and Ph.D. degrees encompassing disciplines such as:

- Atmospheric chemistry
- Cancer research
- Cellular and molecular toxicology
- Developmental toxicology
- Ecotoxicology
- Environmental Remediation
- Fate and transport of environmental chemicals
- Neurotoxicology

FINANCIAL AND GRANT SUPPORT

Graduate students in the program receive generous financial support through a combination of fellowships, training grants, teaching assistantships, and research assistantships.

CONTACT US

Toll free: 800-735-0717

Email: etox@ucr.edu

Web: etox.ucr.edu